DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a) because they fail to show "speaker 7" as described in the specification. Any structural detail that is essential for a proper understanding of the disclosed invention should be shown in the drawing. MPEP § 608.02(d). Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

2. The drawings are objected to because reference characters "MDP" and "CP1" both point to the same part in figure 3, reference characters "SD" and "PDP" both point to the same part in figure 3, and reference characters "SD" and "DPP" both point to the same part in figure 4. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

3. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

Art Unit: 3714

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

The following guidelines illustrate the preferred layout for the specification of a utility application. These guidelines are suggested for the applicant's use.

4. The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

5. The use of the trademark "Konami Corporation" and Keyboard Mania" has been noted in this application. It should be capitalized wherever it appears and be accompanied by the generic terminology.

Although the use of trademarks is permissible in patent applications, the proprietary nature of the marks should be respected and every effort made to prevent their use in any manner which might adversely affect their validity as trademarks.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

6. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

7. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The claimed invention does not fall within at least one of the four categories of patent eligible subject matter recited in 35 U.S.C. 101, the four categories being process, machine, manufacture and composition of matter. The claimed invention is directed towards music game software, and as such does not satisfy the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101.

8. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The claimed invention does not require any physical transformation and the invention as claimed does not produce a useful, concrete, and tangible result, and as such does not satisfy the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

9. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

10. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is not supported by either a specific and substantial asserted utility or a well-established utility.

The claimed invention is directed to a music game software which is not supported by either a specific and substantial asserted utility or a well-established utility as it does not produce a useful, concrete, and tangible result.

Claims 1-5 are also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph. Specifically, since the claimed invention is not supported by either a specific and substantial asserted utility or a well established utility for the reasons set forth above, one skilled in the art clearly would not know how to use the claimed invention.

11. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

12. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claims are replete with indefinite and confusing language, which makes it unclear as to what the applicant regards as their invention. For example in claim 1, line 14 recites "its playback order", it is unclear and confusing as to what "it" is. A further example in claim 5, page 43, lines 20-22 recites "a music playback means for arithmetically processing for changing a pitch”, it is unclear and confusing as to whether “a playback means” is for arithmetically processing a pitch” or “for changing a pitch” or if something else is meant by this limitation. It is also apparent that there are numerous terms that lack an antecedent basis in the claims. Applicant is advised to analyze the present claims and particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention in a clear and concise manner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

13. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

14. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Parappa
The Rapper (Herein referred to as Parappa)

Parappa is a game release by Sony Computer Entertainment, Incorporated in 1997 for the Playstation game console. Each button on the player's controller corresponds to a word, which when combined with the other buttons creates a sentence. Each level provides the player with different words, and different melodies that correspond to the words. The game provides small portions of spoken vocals that are triggered when the appropriate buttons are pressed. Provided for the player is a rhythm bar, which shows the player what order to press the buttons and at what time to push the buttons in order to provide the correct words in a sequence of words. Pressing the buttons in the correct order with the correct timing (the difference between the time the game displays the command to press a certain button and the time the player actually presses that button), provides an intelligible rap while pressing the buttons in an incorrect order or with lousy timing provides the player with an unintelligible rap, which also has a different pitch than if the buttons are pressed in the correct order within the right time. The player is given an overall rating dependent on the accuracy and timing of the player's button actuation which is based on the difference between the time the game commands the player to push a button and the time the player actually presses that button, and if the player's rating is high enough the player is allowed to proceed to the next level.
